

Atavism, A 9/11 Anniversary Waltz

False flags will be flown by fraudulent leaders to prepare us for totalitarianism

By Vi Ransel

Global Research, September 03, 2010

3 September 2010

Theme: History, Terrorism

(Ancient genetic signals can be resurrected after lying dormant for millions of years, awaiting only the right trigger to release them.)

In the early Carboniferous there arose an organism with, for the very first time, more information in its brain than in its genes, and the brain grew more dominant over time.

The modern brain's blueprint is a story of successive accretion and specialization, which freed us from the hard-wired tyranny of DNA's monopoly on total information.

The three interconnected parts of the modern brain correspond to the evolutionary emergence of reptiles, mammals and primates – especially humans – constitute a developmental leap forward in overall brain development, each step adding a new function and a new layer. And since these were laid down over existing systems, the pre-existing systems had to be accommodated, because making basic change deep within the fabric of life very frequently turns out to be fatal. Adding new layers while retaining the old ones allows major change consistent with survival.

Today's triune, or three part brain, consists of the R-complex at its core, surrounded and surmounted by the limbic system, which is enveloped by the massive neo-cortex.

The R-complex is the most ancient part,

the dinosaur component of human nature, seat of reptilian ritual and aggression, territorial and hierarchical behavior.

No carefully-weighed decisions happen here,
no nuances of emotion's wrenching contradictions, just the stolid acquiescence to the dictates of its genes, no thought or action taken of its own volition.

The R-complex lies below the limbic system, which was added during the development of mammals.
It generates emotions, changes of mood and states of mind, and the maternal instinct found in warm-blooded animals.

Emotions can be triggered by hormonal exudations of endocrine systems such as the amygdala.
Stimulating the amygdala can make a placid animal frenzied or cause a cat to cower from a mouse in abject terror.

The limbic system is the seat of subtle emotions which we think uniquely ours among the animals, but altruism may have gotten started here and love may be an invention of the mammals.

The neo-cortex is layered over the limbic system,
and accounts for 85% of the brain's mass.
Its frontal lobes most likely are connected with deliberation and regulation of our actions.

Transforming experience into symbolic languages is a primary function of the neo-cortex, the extrasomatic manifestation of knowledge expressed as reading, writing, speaking, and mathematics.

It may control anticipation of the future and cause worry about the possibility of disaster, but in our attempts to regulate the future we produced ethics, science, legal codes, and magic.

There's a price to be paid for knowing there's a future,
and the price is living with anxiety about it.
But we also know how to sidestep many disasters by foregoing short term gain for long term benefit.

And while control of many bodily functions is shared by different parts of the brain, the parts that lie beneath the neo-cortex still operate in ancient hardwired ways.

At the core of the complexity of the modern brain, the R-complex still performs its simple reptile duties, because it's woven so deeply into the fabric of life it can't be bypassed or discarded with impunity.

* * * * *

If you control the means of communication, and five mega media corporations do, you control The People's views of world events and can make public opinion mirror your own views.

All the vehicles for transmission of information, newspapers and radio, magazines and TV, give exposure to only your side of the issues and create the world the way you want it seen.

This manipulation is particularly insidious when you know that your views, if stated openly, would be voted down, rejected by The People,
so you make them unwitting accomplices to your story.

First, you create a problem -
an assassination, a terrorist attack, a war, an economic collapse - it could be anything,
and then you get your media to report it.

And now that you've created the problem,
you also have to set up a scapegoat.
Again, this could be anything or anyone, as long as it furthers your original purpose - communists, "illegal" immigrants, liberals, single welfare moms, drug users, gays and lesbians, affirmative action recipients, pacifists, public workers, but let's go with Middle Eastern Arab Muslim men.

This provides the further advantage of tapping into reliable latent racism, fear of strange languages, peoples and religions,
and revenge based on jingoistic nationalism.

The People will be eager to attack this scapegoat, who's also the designated Fall Guy/Boogey Man, created to get The People to ask you to do what was originally unacceptable to them.

Crank up faux-balanced pundits and talking heads reading talking points off scripted teleprompters.
Dumb down public opinion by using oxymoronic phrases spouted by "reporters" who are neo-con stenographers.

Using talking points to dumb down national discourse by shrinking the range of what it is that's talked about, is like using a, b and c, but not the rest of the alphabet, and refusing to entertain any reasonable doubts.

"They hate us for our democracy and freedoms."

9/11. Al-Qaeda. Saddam.

"If you're not with us, you're with the terrorists."

Yellow cake. Aluminum tubes. Smoking gun.

"Fight 'em there, or fight 'em here. War on Terror."

9/11. WMD. Saddam.

"Mushroom cloud." "Islamofascistic jihad."

Slam DUNK. Cake WALK. "Bring 'em ON."

Marinate the airwaves, print media and American minds with a shock and awe bouillabaisse of your views with relentless, ritual repetition of propaganda via newspapers, talk radio and Evening Entertainnews with carefully orchestrated images of the event

- 9/11. 9/11. 9/11. 9/11. - a 24/7 blitzkreig of terror by the best means of manufacturing consent ever invented.

Want to give police and military more power for home invasions and warrantless searches?

Wire taps on citizens? A National I.D.?

The ability to detain citizens without charges?

The People will react with "Somebody DO something!"
and that something will dovetail quite precisely with what it was you wanted in the first place, now presented as a way out of this crisis.

9/11. 9/11. 9/11. 9/11.

They'll come running to you for protection, cowering in fear of the Fall Guy/Boogey Man created specifically to control and to oppress them into accepting growing limits on their freedoms and their rights which is passed off as in the national interest, but has nothing at all to do with The People's agenda and, in fact, is a laundry list of your own wishes.

And that's really all that there is to this "sting".

Problem. Reaction. Solution.

A simple, yet Machiavellian technique that short circuits even thoughts of Revolution.

You actually set up those who'd oppose you to see your legislation as the only possible solution to the problem you created in the first place and then get them to demand you introduce it.

The people who proposed the legislation are the people who created the problem so they could impose it.
The cost? A few thousand American sacrificial lambs and hundreds of thousands of Arab Muslim scapegoats.

It works by exploiting instincts that are hardest to control, triggering our most ancient behaviors by pushing our hot buttons of territoriality, hierarchy, ritual and aggression, the basic bundle of R-complex reptile functions.

LET'S BE CLEAR

Territoriality limits not only area, but outlook, a provincialism prone to becoming vainglorious when amplified by the injection of terror alerts transforming it to full-blown xenophobia and a proprietary identification with the "Homeland", which serves as a springboard for wanton aggression that may begin as threats, but always escalates

to an unprovoked act, an assault or an invasion.

Hierarchical behavior is a pecking order based on the infliction of pain.
Each member submits to pecking by those higher and pecks those below without fear of retaliation.

It's intrinsic to vertebrate evolution, since it's the first primitive thought pattern and cerebrative mode of action.
In non-cerebrating, cold-blooded vertebrates, pecking order is completely genetically mechanical.

Each level assumes authority over the one below it, fostering unquestioning obedience to authority instead of individual freedom of judgment and action and paves the way for a dictator's rise to glory or that of a small, dictatorial cabal which assumes it has the right to command, enforce dogma and obedience, and make all final decisions while promoting their own private interests and personal plans.

Ritual is a way of doing things,
an obligatory ceremony set in concrete, considered right and proper, with a strict set of rules established by custom, by habit or by authority.

Territoriality. Provincialism.
Proprietary identification with the "Homeland".
Hierarchical behavior. Xenophobia.
Authoritarianism and Unprovoked Aggression.

Ritual ties them all together and reinforces them, ax of aggression in the center. This is the fasces, an ax tied up in the middle of a bunch of rods, the symbol of the Roman Empire's iron authority.

We need more terror to sustain our Foreign Policy, so laws were passed to create the levers of power for declaring martial law and suspending elections. We're one False Flag from living under Big Brother.

But since the brain can resist the reptile's siren song, they need to do an end run 'round the neo-cortex sentry and speak directly to the dinosaur component that longs to hear the talking points of tyranny.

And the only way to achieve these obscene objectives is to play the last card left in the neoconservative deck. They punch down through the volatile limbic system with a massive dose of terror in order to affect what was once held in check by the distractions of the smokescreen we call the American Dream, and resurrect it from the depths of the reptilian R-complex by sacrificing what makes us human beings, replacing it with the atavism of the reptile "mind" by using "Remember the Maine!" and the Lusitania, the Gulf of Tonkin and Pearl Harbor-like False Flags to rouse The People into a terrified hysteria and get us to acquiesce to the neutering of our constitutional freedoms and unalienable rights and support what the Nuremberg Tribunals termed a war of aggression, the supreme and most heinous international crime.

Our purchased puppet leadership makes a fetish of our most ancient instincts and involuntary reactions, enshrining the authority of black-and-white certainty over the individual liberty of democratic action.

And by punching down through reason with emotion to reach instinctual pecking order submission to authority, they're replacing our representative democracy with a government by stone-cold, corporate sociopathy.

What makes us so uniquely human is our free will,
choice based on critical thought and reasoned deliberation, conscience, empathy, just and honest actions, humility, and the ability to put off gratification.

We don't have to be governed by sociopaths just because they've figured out how to exploit us.
Contrary to Hobbes' assertion life's nasty, brutish and short, human nature doesn't doom us to a life misery and injustice.

But lurking at the base of our impressive modern brains lies waiting patiently one day to be anointed, the primitive, reptile atavist to be used by other reptiles with the ability to exploit it.

False Flags will be flown by fraudulent leaders with psy ops, public diplomacy and perception management at critical, historical junctures intended to prepare us for totalitarianism using terror as the catalyst.

9/11.	9/11.	9/11.	9/11.
Problem.	Reaction.	Solution.
False Flag.	Martial Law.	Fascism.

The antidote?

DEMOCRACY

Accept no substitutions.

- Vi Ransel,

email: rosiesretrocycle@yahoo.com.

The original source of this article is Global Research Copyright © Vi Ransel, Global Research, 2010

Comment on Global Research Articles on our Facebook page

Become a Member of Global Research

Disclaimer: The contents of this article are of sole responsibility of the author(s). The Centre for Research on Globalization will not be responsible for any inaccurate or incorrect statement in this article. The Centre of Research on Globalization grants permission to cross-post Global Research articles on community internet sites as long the source and copyright are acknowledged together with a hyperlink to the original Global Research article. For publication of Global Research articles in print or other forms including commercial internet sites, contact: publications@globalresearch.ca www.globalresearch.ca contains copyrighted material the use of which has not always been specifically authorized by the copyright owner. We are making such material available to our readers under the provisions of "fair use" in an effort to advance a better understanding of political, economic and social issues. The material on this site is distributed without profit to those who have expressed a prior interest in receiving it for research and educational purposes. If you wish to use copyrighted material for purposes other than "fair use" you must request permission from the copyright owner.

For media inquiries: publications@globalresearch.ca