

Brazil's Explanation for Delaying Lula's BRICS Presidency Is Extremely Suspicious

By Andrew Korybko

Global Research, January 19, 2023

Region: Latin America & Caribbean

Theme: Intelligence

All Global Research articles can be read in 51 languages by activating the Translate Website button below the author's name.

To receive Global Research's Daily Newsletter (selected articles), click here.

Follow us on Instagram and Twitter and subscribe to our Telegram Channel. Feel free to repost and share widely Global Research articles.

It's unbelievable that a rising Great Power like Brazil can't organize more than one major multilateral summit in a single year. What appears to be going on is that Lula is doing a favor for the US as a quid pro quo for its intelligence agencies helping to orchestrate the January 8th incident that's consolidating his power.

Brazilian Finance Minister Fernando Haddad told the global elite at this year's Davos Summit on Wednesday that his country wants to delay its planned 2024 BRICS presidency until 2025. According to him,

"We have put off our presidency in BRICS so that it doesn't coincide with the G20...(in order to) do quality work in both cases."

This explanation is extremely suspicious though since it's unbelievable that a rising Great Power like Brazil can't organize more than one major multilateral summit in a single year.

What appears to be going on is that three-time President Luiz Inácio Lula da Silva, who's popularly known as Lula and returned to office this year, is doing a favor for the US as a quid pro quo for its intelligence agencies helping to orchestrate the January 8th incident that's consolidating his power. Those readers who aren't aware of the Brazilian leader's surprising closeness to the US in spite of that declining unipolar hegemon being responsible for his prior jailing should review the following analyses:

- 31 October: "The Geostrategic Consequences Of Lula's Re-Election Aren't As Clear-Cut As Some Might Think"
- 1 November: "Biden's Reaction To Brazil's Latest Election Shows That The US Prefers Lula Over Bolsonaro"
- 24 November: "Korybko To Sputnik Brasil: The Workers' Party Is Infiltrated By Pro-US Liberal-Globalists"
- 9 January: "Everyone Should Exercise Caution Before Rushing To Judgement On What Just Happened In Brazil"

- 12 January: "Korybko To Sputnik Brasil: The US Played A Decisive Role In The January 8th Incident"

In short, Lula's domestic ideological alignment with the US' ruling neoliberals is stronger than his international ideological alignment with Brazil's BRICS partners. That's not to downplay the latter, but just to emphasize the strength of the former, which explains why he's unexpectedly seeking to delay his country's planned BRICS presidency from 2024 to 2025 instead.

He of course can't openly say that this is a favor to the US lest he risk riling his multipolar base, hence the ridiculous excuse that he told his Finance Minister to tell the global elite in Davos, which unbelievably implies that Brazil can't organize more than one major multilateral summit in a single year. It remains to be seen what else Lula might do for the US in exchange for its support in helping him consolidate power, but this latest development raises serious concerns about his larger intentions.

*

Note to readers: Please click the share buttons above or below. Follow us on Instagram and Twitter and subscribe to our Telegram Channel. Feel free to repost and share widely Global Research articles.

This article was originally published on Andrew Korybko's Newsletter.

Andrew Korybko is an American Moscow-based political analyst specializing in the relationship between the US strategy in Afro-Eurasia, China's One Belt One Road global vision of New Silk Road connectivity, and Hybrid Warfare. He is a frequent contributor to Global Research.

He is a regular contributor to Global Research.

Featured image is from the author

The original source of this article is Global Research
Copyright © Andrew Korybko, Global Research, 2023

Comment on Global Research Articles on our Facebook page

Become a Member of Global Research

Articles by: Andrew Korybko

About the author:

Andrew Korybko is an American Moscow-based political analyst specializing in the relationship between the US strategy in Afro-Eurasia, China's One Belt One Road global vision of New Silk Road connectivity, and Hybrid Warfare. He is a frequent

Disclaimer: The contents of this article are of sole responsibility of the author(s). The Centre for Research on Globalization will not be responsible for any inaccurate or incorrect statement in this article. The Centre of Research on Globalization grants permission to cross-post Global Research articles on community internet sites as long the source and copyright are acknowledged together with a hyperlink to the original Global Research article. For publication of Global Research articles in print or other forms including commercial internet sites, contact: publications@globalresearch.ca www.globalresearch.ca contains copyrighted material the use of which has not always been specifically authorized by the copyright owner. We are making such material available to our readers under the provisions of "fair use" in an effort to advance a better understanding of political, economic and social issues. The material on this site is distributed without profit to those who have expressed a prior interest in receiving it for research and educational purposes. If you wish to use copyrighted material for purposes other than "fair use" you must request permission from the copyright owner.

For media inquiries: publications@globalresearch.ca