

Breaking the Paralysis of Servitude. A New Normal Based on Fear Based Uniformity

It has become abundantly clear that 'we the people' are being subjected to a divisive and derisive 'leadership' pantomime of truly global proportions and we cannot any longer simply hope some sanity will emerge to change this situation.

Stand back for a moment and admire the view. Politicians, civil servants, billionaires, bankers, telecom chiefs, pharmaceutical CEO's - you name them - are all acting as though the standard procedures of responsibility and the rule of law have been abandoned and anyone wearing a suit or uniform - and displaying an air of importance - can now step in and make up the rules as they go along.

The Covid Contrivance has provided the necessary fear cover to enable "Satanic" forces to declare an open day. Behaviour patterns are being 'directed' through the application of behavioural psychology, social engineering and undisguised indoctrination procedures. The net affect is that people can receive completely contradictory information communicated by some 'figurehead' and yet remain transfixed by his/her instructions and carry them out - with barely any need for coercion.

It is a process of mass hypnosis which is keeping this demonic show on the road. Put anyone of these mind-bent/mind-bending authority figures in the psychiatrist's chair and with little hesitation, he/she would be diagnosed as clinically insane. Yet, my friends, these are the very people we have allowed to dictate our futures.

We have witnessed, on a daily basis, politicians and self styled 'experts' tell their audience stories in which there is absolutely no underlying logic or rationale to what they are saying; however the instruction is clear - 'obey!' - and to a far too large degree, people do. What is on show here is a paralysis of servitude wedded with political correctness. A deadly and dastardly combination if there ever was one.

What is termed 'the new normal' is supposed to be based upon this model of fear based uniformity.

But what does 'the new normal' mean in the context of this present Covid parody? The impression one gets is that it means politically obedient zombies walking around in 5G WiFi operational zones which suck the oxygen out of their blood molecules - while continuing to wear masks that afflict them with 'apoxia'. The combination making them barely able to breathe.

All this while still failing to question the fact that they must maintain their observation of 'the rules'. Well, if this is the new normal, the 'old normal' mess we are accustomed to will start looking like Shangri-La!

Let us explore what further kind of theatre might develop out of such a scenario. Perhaps 'the new normals' on recognising they are having a serious problem breathing, will decide they need to go to the doctor for a diagnosis of their condition. Once arriving in the surgery they find their doctor happily branding the very latest 'made in China' Covid-19 test kit which, on being put to use, informs the customer that he/she is 'asymptomatic' and has tested 'positive' for having antibodies against CV-19. A diagnosis which simply leads to nobody knowing what to do next, other than going home and turning on the TV to await the next important pronouncement from Big Brother.

Whatever that turns out to be on the surface, underneath it will be a message concerning the further imposition of a New World Order depopulation programme.

A purely factual assessment of what's going on has the affect of simply re-enforcing the underlying insanity at work within this mind bending comedy of errors.

But are they errors?

My conclusion must be that they are not. The social engineering and mind control techniques being employed are time tested and known to be effective. And because the implementers are so sure of the effectiveness of these tools, they are playing with humanity in much the same way as a cat plays with a mouse en route to killing it.

However, the difference between a human being and a mouse is that the human has the God given ability to become 'aware' of the threat being perpetrated against human kind and to take action to counter that threat. Once we become aware that we are being cynically played with - rather than 'looked after' - as governments would make us believe - our natural reaction is to be outraged!

It is precisely this outrage we should all be feeling at this critical juncture. The latest demonic attempt to hoodwink a large segment of the population of the planet is more than just a nasty kink in the road, it is a hiatus in which the future of humanity itself hangs in the balance. Our reaction to this global in your face exploitation is going to determine the future for generations to come.

The work we have at hand to expose and reverse this diabolical situation is now an absolute imperative for each and every one of us. Suddenly we all have the same job and it is not one anyone is going pay us to do.

That job is nothing less than fighting for the retention and restoration of a fundamental value system for mankind. A resolute insistence on holding the line for the maintenance of liberty, dignity and humanity. Drawing upon the inner courage necessary to fight our way out of this physical and psychological corner we have been so complicit in allowing ourselves to be backed into.

The possibility of meekly offering ourselves up as victims of some satanic corporate/billionaire sponsored sect called 'government' is more monstrous than the monsters themselves.

If you 'get' the urgency of this message, don't just nod your head knowingly and retire contentedly into the armchair in front of the TV screen. That level of hypocrisy can only serve to greatly extend the prison sentence.

Throw out the TV as I did twenty years ago - along with the cell phone - in recognition of the fact that they are indeed Big Brother technologies. Technologies that have played an unprecedented role in the mass dumbing down of an entire generation and the eclipse of millions of once thoughtful and creative individuals, from one end of the planet to the other.

Mankind is being tested. At this epoch making time we are all being set an examination. One which will reveal the emergence of the true human and the submergence of the fake look-alike. To quote Aldous Huxley

“That we are being propelled in the direction of Brave New World is obvious. But no less obvious is the fact that we can, if we so desire, refuse to co-operate with the blind forces that are propelling us” (1955, Brave New World Revisited).

“If we so desire”, says Huxley. But now, some 65 years later and in the midst of a near totalitarian take-over encompassing criminal acts of physical and psychological exploitation, we do not have the luxury of choice. We are surrounded, so break-out we must. No choice.

As I have said before and will repeat, the challenge we are faced with is unprecedented, so the response we are called upon to manifest must be equally unprecedented. We are breaking new ground here, and what lies in front of us is bursting with extraordinary liberating portent.

During the immediate weeks, months and years ahead we have this unparalleled opportunity to break-out of centuries of servitude to cold, calculating masters of deception who count on our remaining forever on our knees to their pronouncements. But their game plan is unravelling and we are increasingly alert to its intentions.

By seizing this auspicious moment and rising up in defiance against all attempts to impose a culture of death over the celebration of life, we will be demonstrating our deepest instinct for the power of love to overcome all expressions of hate.

Love is, after all, the one force which has always been - and will always be, the God given prerogative of mankind to make gloriously manifest.

Every action we take in standing-up against the dark forces of occupation on this planet, is a true expression of our love of Life. Once enough of such actions are made manifest, the light will most surely break through!
