Cynthia McKinney is a prominent human rights activist and politician. As member of the Democratic Party she served six terms as a member of the House of Representatives. In 2008, the Green Party nominated McKinney as candidate for the Presidency of the United States. Cynthia McKinney is the first African American woman to have represented Georgia in the House.

Cynthia McKinney has been actively involved in the Gaza solidarity campaign. She was recently arrested on a ship in international waters and jailed in Israel, in blatant violation of international law.

Paki Wieland is a retired social worker/family therapist educator in the Department of Applied Psychology, Antioch University, Keene, New Hampshire. Since the 1960s, she's also been a dedicated anti-war and civil rights activist.

Since June 8, she's been at the Gaza-Rafah border crossing as part of an ad hoc international nonviolent coalition to break the siege and liberate the imprisoned 1.5 million population.

Discussion will focus on her mercy mission and why it's so important.

John Kozy is a retired philosophy and logic professor, now blogging on social, political, and economic issues. He taught for 20 years and was a writer for another 20. His articles can be found at www.jkozy.com, www.johnkozy.mindsay.com, and on the Global Research website.

Discussion will focus on his latest one titled, "Whose Country is it anyway? A political-economic oligarchy has taken over the United States of America." It was stolen long ago and needs to be taken back but won't be unless a grassroots arousal does it.

Paul Craig Roberts was Assistant Secretary of the Treasury under Ronald Reagan, a Wall Street Journal Associate Editor, and holder of numerous academic appointments, including at Georgetown University's Center for Strategic and International Studies.

He's was a fierce critic of Bush administration policies and expresses similar concerns about Barack Obama's agenda.

He regularly contributes to popular web sites and is the author of "The Tyranny of Good Intentions: How Prosecutors and Bureaucrats Are Trampling the Constitution in the Name of Justice."

Discussion will focus on Obama's domestic and foreign policies.

Jack Rasmus is a Professor of Political Economy at St. Mary's College and Santa Clara University. He's also a freelance journalist, frequent speaker, a playwright, and author of "The War at Home: The Bush-Corporate Offensive Against American Workers and Their Unions." His new books include "The Trillion Dollar Income Shift: Essays on Income Inequality in America" and "Epic Recession and Global Financial Crisis."

The deepening global economic crisis will be discussed.
