

Donald's 4th of July: Sherman Tanks and Other Death Machines

By Kurt Nimmo

Global Research, July 04, 2019

Another Day in the Empire 2 July 2019

Region: USA

Theme: Militarization and WMD

Once upon a time, the Fourth of July was about liberty and the Declaration of Independence. Now it's about grilled burgers, beer, and fireworks made in China.

For President Trump, the upcoming "holiday" is about showing off the latest death merchant gizmos, including fighter jets and tanks.

Trump said this week's #July4th celebration will feature brand new tanks and "the best fighter jets in the world."

"Gotta be pretty careful with the tanks because the roads have a tendency not to like to carry heavy tanks so we have to put them in certain areas," he said pic.twitter.com/O3xO6R2JcG

— POLITICO (@politico) July 1, 2019

Did you catch that? Trump believes the death merchants still crank out Sherman tanks. The US has not produced Sherman tanks since WWII.

As for the "best fighter jets in the world," is it possible the Donald is talking about the F-35 Joint Strike Fighter? This puppy came in 100% over budget, something the stockholders at Lockheed Martin undoubtedly celebrated.

In response to the embarrassing fact the F-35 dog don't hunt, in 2012 the Pentagon dumped an additional $450 million into the project.

Russia's Sukhoi Su-57 cost an estimated $10 million to research, develop, and prepare for production. Believe it or not, the F-35 cost $1.5 trillion to get off the drawing board. It is the most expensive weapons program in history.

The Donald's militarized Fourth of July might be considered part of his sales pitch for the MIC (Military Industrial Complex). He would like to roll tanks—maybe including an ancient Sherman tank or two—down Pennsylvania Avenue, but it's out of the question, as he noted in the above video.

Thomas Jefferson, the principal author of the Declaration of Independence, warned about keeping "instruments on foot" and said one such "instrument is a standing army."

But then, far too many Americans are at a complete loss when it comes to the foundational principles of America, formerly and briefly a constitutional republic.

*

Note to readers: please click the share buttons above or below. Forward this article to your email lists. Crosspost on your blog site, internet forums. etc.

The original source of this article is Another Day in the Empire

Copyright © Kurt Nimmo, Another Day in the Empire, 2019

Comment on Global Research Articles on our Facebook page

Become a Member of Global Research

Articles by: Kurt Nimmo

Disclaimer: The contents of this article are of sole responsibility of the author(s). The Centre for Research on Globalization will not be responsible for any inaccurate or incorrect statement in this article. The Centre of Research on Globalization grants permission to cross-post Global Research articles on community internet sites as long the source and copyright are acknowledged together with a hyperlink to the original Global Research article. For publication of Global Research articles in print or other forms including commercial internet sites, contact: publications@globalresearch.ca www.globalresearch.ca contains copyrighted material the use of which has not always been specifically authorized by the copyright owner. We are making such material available to our readers under the provisions of "fair use" in an effort to advance a better understanding of political, economic and social issues. The material on this site is distributed without profit to those who have expressed a prior interest in receiving it for research and educational purposes. If you wish to use copyrighted material for purposes other than "fair use" you must request permission from the copyright owner.

For media inquiries: publications@globalresearch.ca