Former White House Coronavirus Response Coordinator, Dr Deborah Birx is looking pretty rough under questioning by Ohio Congressman Jim Jordan last Thursday. Looks like fear of the gallows.

She testifies that she knew in December 2020 and January 2021 that people who were naturally infected with COVID-19 were experiencing reinfection based on data coming out of South Africa.

She says that officials were likely "hoping" that infection or transmission would not reoccur once the vaccines came along, saying, "I think it was hope that the vaccine would work in that way."

Then Jim Jordan asks her, "When the Government told us, told the American People that people who had been vaccinated 'Couldn't get it [COVID],' were they guessing or were they lying?"

Birx, shaking and stammering, responds, "I don't know. All I know is there was evidence from the global pandemic that natural re-infection was occurring and since the vaxxine was based on natural immunity, you cannot make a conclusion that the vaxxine will do better than natural infection."

In short, she admitted that they were lying.
