Global Research, September 28, 2020

Global Research is committed to curbing the tide of disinformation and stimulating public engagement and understanding through our activities.

We act as a worldwide platform for much needed debate within the context of a very complex crisis. We need to stand together to find our way amid misled politicians, media misrepresentations, and the suppression of independent thought.

We refuse to accept any form of corporate funding which would inevitably compromise our content. We are powered by our readers and are indebted to your support.
