

Global Research: Exposing Political Spin and Media Manipulation

By The Global Research Team

Global Research, November 09, 2020

Dear Readers,

Global Research doesn't shy away from exposing political spin and media manipulation; we confront these head on through in-depth, independent coverage of global events by journalists, scholars and scientists all over the world.

Our commitment has always been to bring you timely information and analysis, free of charge. Ensuring everything is in place in order to be able to deliver our content to you for free on a daily basis is, however, a costly endeavour.

Can you help us meet our monthly running expenses and ensure that our articles stay free and accessible to as many people as possible, for as long as possible? In an online environment increasingly hostile towards independent reporting, financial support from our readers is crucial to the continuation of our activities.
