"Don't tempt me. Do your job" Hillary Clinton responded in a tweet to Trump when he said that "I think that Crooked Hillary Clinton should enter the race to try and steal it away from Uber Left Elizabeth Warren." In reality, the democrats have no one that can face Trump and win. Trump's popularity has remained basically the same despite polls that suggest otherwise. The Democrats have pushed the Russia-Gate conspiracy theory that failed and now the Impeachment inquiry as their latest plot to remove Trump from office by a whistleblower who happened to be a CIA operative planted inside the White House who exposed Trump's conversation with the Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky. During the conversation, Trump had asked to investigate Joe Biden and his son Hunter for their involvement in the Ukraine's largest energy company, Burisma where Hunter Biden sat on the board of the energy company and was paid more than $50,000 a month. Although there might be some ethical problems with Trump's suggestion to the Ukrainian leader, the American's do have a right to know about the Joe Biden's business dealings with the Ukrainian government who is absolutely corrupt to its core.

Besides the mainstream media's 24 hour news reporting on the Impeachment Inquiry, Joe Biden has practically put his own foot in his mouth when the Democrats were asked about the legacy of slavery at the third Democratic debate last month, when he said

"Look, there's institutional segregation in this country," Biden struggling with his answer "and from the time I got involved, I started dealing with that. Redlining, making sure that we are in a position where - look, talk about education. I proposed that what we take is those very poor schools, the Title I schools, triple the amount of money we spend."

"the teachers ... have every problem coming to them, we have to make sure that every single child does, in fact, have three, four, and five-year-olds go to school - school, not daycare, school. We bring social workers into homes and parents to help them deal with how to raise their children. It's not that they don't want to help. They don't know quite what to do. Play the radio. Make sure the television - excuse me, make sure you have the record player on at night."

Biden's fate has been sealed with his scandals with the Ukraine along with his black people who don't know "how to raise their children" problem is a red flag for the Democrats. They will not take a chance with Biden under these circumstances. The democrats have ruined the prospect of winning the 2020 elections against Trump since they have no original platform to run on besides their conspiracy theories and propaganda. Now they are banking Trump's conversation with Zelensky as an impeachable offence in hopes of removing Trump from office which will not happen with a majority of Republicans in the senate who will vote against impeachment.

Forget Biden and Warren, Hillary Clinton is the Democratic Party

Image on the right is from Another Day in the Empire

Elizabeth Warren will not be President or Vice-President without Hillary Clinton. In fact, according to an NBC News article from early September 'Warren and Clinton talk behind the scenes as 2020 race intensifies' claims that

"Elizabeth Warren's team doesn't want to talk about Hillary Clinton, but that doesn't mean the 2020 presidential candidate isn't talking with her party's 2016 nominee" the report said. "The two women have kept a line of communication open since the Massachusetts senator decided to run for president — though only a conversation around the time of Warren's launch has been previously reported."

Warren knows that Clinton is the power and the face of the Democratic party. Who has credibility among the establishment Democrats according to NBC News? "with a progressive base behind her, Warren's political need is to make establishment Democrats comfortable with her candidacy. Clinton, whose politics arguably have been closer to Biden's over the course of her career, has deep credibility in those circles." So Clinton is Warren's go to person for advice. Bloomberg News reported back on July 25th that by Warren "endorsing Sanders, her ideological ally, would mean sacrificing her ability to influence Clinton, who was widely expected to win" Warren did not endorse anyone until Clinton became the Democratic nominee. "In essence, Warren bet that she had a better chance of enacting her liberal agenda by working through Clinton than by banking on a Sanders revolution." Warren's domestic and foreign policies is not too far off from establishment Democrats or Republicans. For example, In Wall Street, there are some high level bankers and Hedge Fund managers who would support Warren. Bloomberg News reported that

"there's a new whisper on Wall Street — maybe Elizabeth Warren isn't so bad." the story continued "the Democratic senator, who rose to national prominence by calling for tough regulation after the financial crisis, is winning respect from a small but growing circle of senior bankers and hedge fund managers."

Warren's foreign policy stance won't be any different from Clinton's either. Warren's Q&A with the Council of Foreign Relations published last month shows where Warren stands on Iran, Venezuela, Russia and others. Warren said that there are "serious concerns" on Iran's policies concerning its nuclear program and its "support for destabilizing regional proxies." On Venezuela, Warren said that "Maduro is a dictator and a crook who has wrecked his country's economy, dismantled its democratic institutions, and profited while his people suffer." She actually Sounds like Donald Trump. What Warren forgot to mention is that the U.S. sanctions and attempted regime change operations over the years that have repeatedly failed has contributed to Venezuela's economic and political crisis. She will also support regime change policies when she said that "the United States should lead the international community in addressing Venezuela's humanitarian crisis and supporting regional efforts to negotiate a political transition, including free and fair elections as soon as possible." Warren also mentioned Russia who "by illegally annexing Ukrainian territory and fueling a war in eastern Ukraine, Russia has imperiled the vision of a Europe whole, free, and at peace that prevailed for nearly a quarter century." Well by now you can get the idea where Warren's foreign policy is going.

Elizabeth Warren has also insulted Indigenous tribes in the U.S. by claiming she had Native American blood from the Cherokee Nation. Warren faced a backlash even from Trump who consistently still calls her "Pocahontas." The Washington Times reported the response from the Cherokees on October 15th, 2018:

Sen. Elizabeth Warren trumpeted Monday DNA test results showing she has a smidgen of Native American blood, although no more than the average U.S. white person, even as Cherokees accused her of dishonoring them with her dubious claims of tribal ancestry. Cherokee Nation Secretary of State Chuck Hoskin Jr. said the Massachusetts Democrat was "undermining" Native Americans with her attempt to prove her tribal heritage using genetic testing, calling it "inappropriate and wrong."

"Using a DNA test to lay claim to any connection to the Cherokee Nation or any tribal nation, even vaguely, is inappropriate and wrong," said Mr. Hoskin in a statement. "It makes a mockery out of DNA tests and its legitimate uses while also dishonoring legitimate tribal governments and their citizens whose ancestors are well documented and whose heritage is proven." "Senator Warren is undermining tribal interests with her continued claims of tribal heritage," he concluded

Warren has apologized since then. The only way I see Warren in the White House if of course, the Democrats win, is as vice-president under the queen of the Democratic party who has significant political and economic power within the establishment. The two most important front-runners Joe Biden and Elizabeth Warren have no chance against Trump. Without getting into the details, you can forget about the rest of the Democratic candidates including Bernie Sanders (whose health is now in question since his heart attack), Cory Booker, Beto O'Rourke, and the rest especially the only anti-war candidate out of all the Democrats, Tulsi Gabbard.

An interesting story by the Washington Free Beacon 'Good News for Hillary Clinton 2020, Inevitable?' claimed that "There is one battle-tested candidate still on the sidelines who could enter the race at any time and wrest her party's nomination from the likes of former vice president Joe Biden, Sen. Elizabeth Warren (D., Mass.), or Sen. Bernie Sanders (I., Vt.). Her name is Hillary Rodham Clinton."

The article also mentioned the flaws between Joseph Biden and Bernie Sanders "Biden looks wobbly, and Clinton's rival from the 2016 campaign, Bernie Sanders, is struggling to stay relevant." the article continued "Donald Trump's first term in office has been an epically entertaining saga thus far. What better way to cap it off than by bringing back a major character from the early episodes and setting up what is sure to be the most highly rated rematch in American history?" Mainly CNN and MSNBC would welcome a Hillary Clinton-Donald Trump rematch at the U.S. presidential debates since their viewership has declined due to their propaganda and their ridiculous conspiracy theories. A rematch would surely add a boost to their ratings. Hillary Clinton has come out more so in recent months and more so since the Democratic party and a handful of Republicans came out and called for Trump's impeachment due to his phone call with Zelensky. I believe the democrats and many of the Clintonistas in Washington are conducting psychological warfare against Trump. Taint him with the label of a traitor who is conspiring with Russia which is further from the truth since Trump himself has been more aggressive towards Russia with economic sanctions and geopolitical moves that has threatened Russia right up to its borders. Overall it's all nonsense.

A Clinton-Warren ticket in the making? It will be an uphill battle for the Democrats unless the coming economic recession happens before the November elections which is most likely, then Trump will be the fall guy who will take the blame for the economic downturn. The Democrats will have something to work with in regards to an economic recession therefore they will have a better chance of winning. The Democratic National Committee (DNC) is willing to do anything to ensure a Democratic victory over Trump. They undermined Bernie Sanders in 2016, so don't think they won't attempt to steal the elections from Trump in 2020. U.S. Representative from Hawaii, Tulsi Gabbard is seriously considering boycotting the Democratic debate on October 15th due to the fact that she knows that the DNC and the mainstream-media will rig the Democratic primary election. Here is what she said:

I share your concerns, and I'm sure that all our supporters throughout the country do as well. The 2016 Democratic Primary election was rigged by the DNC and their partners in the corporate media against Bernie Sanders.

In this 2020 election, the DNC and corporate media are rigging the election again, but this time against the American people in the early voting states of Iowa, New Hampshire, South Carolina, and Nevada. They are attempting to replace the roles of voters in the early states, using polling and other arbitrary methods which are not transparent or democratic, and holding so-called debates which are not debates at all but rather commercialized reality television meant to entertain, not inform or enlighten. In short, the DNC and corporate media are trying to hijack the entire election process

I would not be surprised if Hillary Clinton runs again, although back in March, she told a local New York City television station News 12 that

"I'm not running," she said "but I'm going to keep working on and speaking and standing up for what I believe."

She basically believes that she still can become the first woman president of the United States. Several journalists and researchers in the alternative media and of course, H.A. Goodman of the Huffington Post who since 2016, has been consistently saying that Clinton will run again. They could steal the elections from Trump and the Trump supporters will challenge the outcome. There could be another Bush-Gore debacle with the Florida recount during the presidential election of 2000. Will history repeat itself? We need to factor in that Clinton still has many friends who hate Trump in the Military-Industrial Complex, in congress, intelligence agencies, major corporations, banks and the mainstream media. She is still influential among the establishment.

Ironically, Clinton recently authored a new book with her daughter Chelsea titled 'The Book of Gutsy Women: Favorite Stories of Courage and Resilience' according to their Amazon page it's about "gutsy women who have inspired them—women with the courage to stand up to the status quo, ask hard questions, and get the job done."
