It's time for change, time to choose peace over violence, facts over lies. In the words of Michael Carmichael:

"Global Research is the essential tool for international activists, analysts and observers. Cutting-edge analyses and commentaries by the boldest and most incisive writers bring readers up-to-the-minute information that is simply not available from any other source. I rely heavily on Global Research, and I commend it to anyone seriously interested in comprehending the raging tides of events constantly flooding into our world."
