"Project Censored educates students and the public about the importance of a truly free press for democratic self-government. We expose and oppose news censorship and we promote independent investigative journalism, media literacy, and critical thinking."

The growth of independent media and journalism in recent years shows that people throughout the world yearn to hold not only their leaders accountable, but their media sources as well. For that reason, the Project Censored research program continues, in its small way, to support and highlight those who tell the truth about the powerful (no matter the consequences) and are relentless in their quest to hold Big Media accountable for their decisions".

The Project Censored Award is granted to the authors of news stories which are censored or excluded from the mainstream media. Global Research from the outset has supported the endeavors of the Project Censored Team.

This year, five Global Research authors are the recipients of the 2012-2013 Project Censored Award. Global Research is indebted to these distinguished authors for their outstanding contributions.

The Project Censored award was granted to:

Kevin Zeese for his contribution to the debate on the Trans Pacific Partnership, Ellen Brown for her analysis of how bank interest leads to hikes in the prices of consumer goods, James Tracy on the detrimental impacts of wireless technology on the health of Americans. Cassandra Anderson and Anthony Gucciardi on the insidious role of Monsanto.
