

On the Future of Manufactured Pandemics: Origins of COVID-19, the U.S. Military's Bioweapons Program, Global Vaccine Resistance

By Timothy Alexander Guzman

Global Research, September 04, 2023

Region: USA

Theme: Intelligence, Media Disinformation, Science and Medicine

All Global Research articles can be read in 51 languages by activating the Translate Website button below the author's name.

To receive Global Research's Daily Newsletter (selected articles), click here.

Click the share button above to email/forward this article to your friends and colleagues. Follow us on Instagram and Twitter and subscribe to our Telegram Channel. Feel free to repost and share widely Global Research articles.

On August 2nd, 2019, a local newspaper based in Frederick, Maryland called The Frederick News-Post published a report 'Fort Detrick lab shut down after failed safety inspection; all research halted indefinitely' on the sudden closure of the U.S. Army Medical Research Institute of Infectious Diseases lab located at Ft. Detrick, Maryland:

All research at a Fort Detrick laboratory that handles high-level disease-causing material, such as Ebola, is on hold indefinitely after the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention found the organization failed to meet biosafety standards.

No infectious pathogens, or disease-causing material, have been found outside authorized areas at the U.S. Army Medical Research Institute of Infectious Diseases

The reasons for the shut down is questionable:

According to the Code of Federal Regulations, which also lists required training, records and biosafety plans, Federal Select Agents Program registration can be suspended to protect public health and safety. It is not clear if this is why the USAMRIID registration was suspended

However, the reasons they shut down the lab ranged from workers not getting recertified to the wastewater decontamination system that failed to meet the required safety standards:

The suspension was due to multiple causes, including failure to follow local procedures and a lack of periodic recertification training for workers in the biocontainment laboratories, according to Vander Linden. The wastewater decontamination system also failed to meet standards set by the Federal Select Agent Program

Shortly after, on January 30th, 2020, the coronavirus pandemic was announced. I am not saying that Covid-19 began in Ft. Detrick [NO EVIDENCE], but it is worth reexamining what really happened that compelled CDC officials to order the shutdown of the lab over employees not getting recertified or problems with managing the wastewater decontamination system.

On March 13th, 2020, The New York Times headlined with 'China Spins Tale That the U.S. Army Started the Coronavirus Epidemic' which was based on China's "conspiracy theories", and that it was the US Army Medical Research Institute of Infectious Diseases (USAMRIID) based in Fort Detrick, Maryland who released Covid-19,

"After criticizing American officials for politicizing the pandemic, Chinese officials and news outlets have floated unfounded theories that the United States was the source of the virus."

Chinese authorities were referring to an article published from The New York Times on August 5th, 2019 'Deadly Germ Research Is Shut Down at Army Lab Over Safety Concerns' that claimed why the US military lab was shut down and had cancelled all research concerning lethal microbes "Safety concerns at a prominent military germ lab have led the government to shut down research involving dangerous microbes like the Ebola virus."

The spokesperson from the US Army, Ms. Vander Linden declared that "Research is currently on hold." However, The NY Times had some positive news I suppose, "But there has been no threat to public health, no injuries to employees and no leaks of dangerous material outside the laboratory." But no more information from that point on, "In the statement, the C.D.C. cited "national security reasons" as the rationale for not releasing information about its decision." Very strange in my opinion.

Cui Bono: Russia Exposes Who Benefits from the US Military's Bioweapons Program

However, Lieutenant General Igor Kirillov, the Chief of Nuclear, Chemical and Biological Protection Troops of the Armed Forces of the Russian Federation recently conducted an important briefing on the U.S. military biological activities and present danger it imposes to all of us.

In fact, it is a warning to what the U.S. government is capable of and that is releasing another biological weapon, whether dangerous or not for its geopolitical agendas including the WEF's goal of depopulating the earth. As for the globalists, less people on the planet will be much easier to control.

Release a bioweapon, discover a vaccine as the cure, and then scare or force people to take the so-called “vaccine” or what I like to call “experimental shots.”

Besides the goals of depopulation, the political and corporate establishment and their Big Pharma cartels have created long-term patients from the injuries caused by the Covid-19 experimental shots which in their perspective, is good for business.

The next pandemic is the second phase of a long-term war against humanity as Kirillov laid out the US government’s stated goals which “are primarily aimed at studying potential agents of biological weapons — anthrax, tularemia, coronavirus, as well as pathogens of economically significant infections — pathogenic avian influenza and African swine fever”

he continued

“there is a clear trend: pathogens that fall within the Pentagon’s area of interest, such as COVID-19, avian influenza, African swine fever, subsequently become pandemic, and American pharmaceutical companies become the beneficiaries.”

Kirillov also mentioned Event 201, an exercise conducted before the Covid-19 pandemic on October 18th, 2019, that “simulated the epidemic of a previously unknown coronavirus that, according to the scenario, was transmitted from bats to humans via a porcine organism, the intermediary virus carrier.”

For Russian authorities “the development of the pandemic under this scenario, as well as the implementation of EcoHealth Alliance projects, raises questions about the possible intentional nature of COVID-19 and U.S. involvement in the incident.”

So, the US Military Creates a Problem, Big Pharma Creates the Solution

The question remains, was the US government behind the Covid-19 outbreak?

It's hard to say at this point, but one thing is for sure, Big Pharma executives from Pfizer, Moderna, AstraZeneca and other biotech companies were licking their lips for the future profits that they were about to make on the vaccines they produced. The propaganda campaign to scare humanity into taking these so-called vaccines worked to an extent despite those who fell into the trap of getting the Covid-19 experimental shot.

However, it was estimated that more than 2 billion people did not take the Covid-19 experimental shot, and that should give us hope to be more optimistic about any future virus currently being created by Western funded biolabs around the world including those in the Ukraine and elsewhere.

A platform created by the Center for Global Development and the United Nations Development Programme called Pandem-ic.com published an updated report on August 6, 2023, ‘Mapping our unvaccinated world’ and said that “Globally, 2.2 billion people are completely unvaccinated.

“This is the global tally as of today based on the latest information available. It represents the total number of people who have yet to receive their first shot.”

And Thank God! Make no mistake, this was and still is biological warfare and many people around the world fought back and resisted Western authorities and their institutions such as Big Pharma, the Centers for Disease Control (CDC) and the World Health Organization (WHO).

There is hope and optimism regarding the next ‘plandemic’ because the people have awakened to the fact that there is a cult of death and destruction called the ‘globalists’ who want to depopulate our planet.

Below is the relevant data published by the WHO (June 27, 2023)

Vaccination ▼
Total doses admin... ▼

13,461,751,619
vaccine doses administered

5,579,548,776
persons vaccinated with at least one dose

5,137,861,772 persons vaccinated with a complete primary series

- 13,461,751,619 vaccine doses administered
- 5,579,548,776 persons vaccinated with at least one dose
- 5,137,861,772 persons vaccinated with complete primary series (CPS)

“The figures above confirm that approximately 70% (5.138 billion people) of the World’s population has been vaccinated with “a complete primary series” which normally consists of at least two vaccine doses.

The WHO map below should be carefully analyzed. 13,5 billion doses have been administered.

In most countries, including the most populated countries on the planet, the total number of vaccine doses administered per 100 population is well in excess of 100 (dark green in map below).

The only region of the World which so far has escaped the “Killer Vaccine” is Africa, with barely 25% of its 1.4 billion population fully vaccinated (Africa CDC) (see map below)” (For Further Details see Michel Chossudovsky, July, 2023)

Worldwide Resistance against Lockdowns and Vaccine Mandates

The worldwide resistance against the Covid-19 lockdowns, vaccine mandates, face masks, and social distancing at the height of the pandemic was and still is, inspiring for us all. Although they were many people who resisted the medical establishment worldwide, I want to mention several countries, resistance groups, organizations and the people who have resisted the lies and they all should be recognized for it.

Big Pharma's Major Problem: The Global Resistance

Kirillov said that when the US military works with dangerous pathogens "American pharmaceutical companies become the beneficiaries" which is a factual statement.

Whatever the US government and Big Pharma are planning behind closed doors, they will fail. It's just like that old saying, "fool me once, shame on you, fool me twice, shame on me".

The good news is that there is no trust in Big Pharma around the world, especially in most African countries.

On March 9th, 2021, Afrobarometer, a pan-African, nonpartisan survey research network published

'Who wants COVID-19 vaccination? In 5 West African countries, hesitancy is high, trust low' based on a survey on five countries in Africa where they conducted face to face interviews on their views about Covid-19 vaccines:

This dispatch is based on data collected during the period October 2020-January 2021 in five West African countries: Benin, Liberia, Niger, Senegal, and Togo. In each country, Afrobarometer conducted face-to-face interviews in the language of the respondent's choice with a nationally representative sample of 1,200 adult citizens that yields country-level results with a margin of error of +/-3 percentage points at a 95% confidence level

Here are the most important findings to consider in the Survey:

- In the five surveyed countries in West Africa, most citizens – 92% on average – say they are “somewhat well informed” or “very well informed” about the COVID-19 pandemic and efforts to combat it
- Only three in 10 respondents (31%) say they trust their government “somewhat” or “a lot” to ensure that any vaccine is safe before it is offered to citizens. Mistrust is particularly high in Senegal (83%) and Liberia (78%)
- Six in 10 citizens (60%), on average, say they are unlikely to try to get vaccinated, including 44% who consider it “highly unlikely.” Senegalese (79%) and Liberians (66%) are most likely to express a reluctance to take the vaccine
- Vaccine hesitancy/resistance skyrockets alongside doubts about the government's ability to ensure that vaccines are safe. Those who fully trust their government on this score are five to 10 times as likely to want the vaccine as those who don't trust it
- Large majorities in Niger (89%), Liberia (86%), and Senegal (71%) believe that prayer is more effective than a vaccine in preventing coronavirus infection. Views are more divided in Benin (41%) and Togo (40%)
- Poor respondents express a greater reluctance to get vaccinated than their better off counterparts.
- “Except in Liberia, citizens with more formal education are not significantly more likely to want the vaccine than their less educated counterparts“

- “Vaccine hesitancy is significantly stronger in cities than in rural areas in Benin, Togo, and Niger“

In another report published on November 24th, 2022, this time by the BBC The vaccine hesitancy in North Africa's Covid 'black hole' reported on Morocco's population and their high-rate of vaccinations as to those in the Western Sahara who were not, “according to one international survey published in 2019 before the pandemic began, 80% of Moroccans trusted vaccines to be safe, among the highest rates in the world.” However, in the Western Sahara, it is a different story:

But that high level of trust may be far lower among the 600,000 people living in Western Sahara – a non-self-governing territory that is administered by Morocco. When it comes to the Covid-19 pandemic, Western Sahara is a black hole: no information exists. The area is a blank spot on the World Health Organization's global map of Covid-19 cases and vaccines because Morocco refuses to publish data about how many Sahrawis have been vaccinated in this politically sensitive region

In the Western Sahara, the BBC interviewed a truck driver by the name of Hanzali who knows people who bought a vaccine certificate to avoid taking the vaccine, “even the people who took the vaccine took it not because they wanted to but because they were told to or had to” Hanzali continued “I'm not against the vaccine – I'm against the people who try to force me to get the vaccine.”

There were unvaccinated Sahrawis who do not trust their politicians, they were the ones that pushed these vaccines on the Sahrawis, “several unvaccinated Sahrawis told the BBC that their hesitancy stems from the fact that Morocco's politicians – not its doctors – have been at the forefront of the country's vaccination campaign.” An unnamed student of media and technology in Laayoune told BBC “In my opinion the government used 'corona' for political purposes” he continued “In Casablanca and Rabat, there were lots of protests against the government – and here too [in Laayoune]. It's because it comes from the government that people don't agree.” The highlight of the story is that the unnamed student still refuses the vaccine, “three years into the pandemic, he says he still refuses to take the vaccine. His view is shared by others the BBC spoke to in the region.”

Africa: The Continent of Resistance

In a article by World Bank Blogs written by several authors including Neia Prata Muloongo Simuzingili, Zelalem Yilma Debebe, Fedja Pivodic and Ernest Massiah titled 'What is driving COVID-19 vaccine hesitancy in Sub-Saharan Africa?' on the reasons why so many Africans are rejecting Covid-19 vaccines:

In Africa, there are multiple drivers of vaccine hesitancy . Concerns about safety, side effects, and effectiveness are widespread—and observed among health workers in Zimbabwe, Ghana, South Africa, Kenya, Sudan, and Ethiopia. The Africa CDC survey noted that respondents viewed COVID-19 vaccines as less safe and effective than other vaccines, similar findings have been observed in Uganda, Sierra Leone, Rwanda, Mozambique, Burkina Faso, Cameroon and South Africa. The suspension of AstraZeneca's roll out in some European countries, the South African data on its effectiveness and the temporary suspension of the Johnson & Johnson vaccine in the United States to evaluate reports of blood clotting, affected confidence in COVID-19 vaccination. Ultimately, AstraZeneca's vaccine was refused by several African countries

So why Africans reject Big Pharma's experimental shots? Authorities blame the internet and social media for the "conspiracy theories" that spreads medical misinformation:

Access to social media has facilitated the spread of misinformation and conspiracy theories. In the Africa CDC study, people with high levels of hesitancy were more likely to use social media and be exposed to disinformation. Half of those surveyed in South Africa believed the virus was linked to 5G technology. In another South African study, approximately a third of those who would refuse the vaccine trusted social media as a primary source of information. A small study in Addis Ababa showed that hesitancy was 3.6 times higher among those who received their information from social media compared to those who relied on television and radio

The African people are awake to the fact that they don't want to be guinea pigs in any form:

Mistrust of vaccines developed in Western countries is not new in Africa. It is rooted in the history of unethical Western medical practices on the continent where early efforts to address disease diminished trust in Western medicine and led to underutilization of health services. Approximately 43% of those surveyed by the Africa CDC 15-country study believed that Africans were being used as guinea pigs in vaccine trials. Similar findings were noted in DRC; and, a 2021 survey in Addis Ababa hesitancy was associated with the belief that the vaccine was a biological weapon from developed countries to control population growth

Remembering Tanzania's President, John Magufuli, a Fighter Against Big Pharma's COVID-19 Vaccine Propaganda

Tanzania's President John Magufuli who passed away on March 17th, 2021, rejected the dictates of Western governments, their institutions and corporations including the WHO and Big Pharma. Magufuli once said that

"The ministry of health should be careful, they should not hurry to try these vaccines without doing research, not every vaccine is important to us, we should be careful."

He staunchly said, "We should not be used as 'guinea pigs'." Magufuli exposed the mass hysteria of the Covid-19 virus as an over-exaggeration right from the start.

Now Tanzania has changed its attitude towards Covid-19 vaccines since the passing of Magufuli, in fact, there is a propaganda campaign. In what we can call a propaganda article by Health Policy Watch, 'Tanzania Mobilises Musicians and Influencers to Shed the Legacy of its COVID-denying Ex-president' based on the increase of vaccinations from 10% of the population to 50%:

However, Tanzania has repeatedly struggled to counter misinformation and people's reluctance to be vaccinated. To quell growing scepticism against COVID-19 vaccines, Tanzania's Ministry of Health embarked on community mobilisation campaigns that included community influencers.

Community health workers, musicians and others have become part of the government-led communication strategy to share reliable information about the pandemic, dispel the tide of misinformation and boost the vaccine numbers

If the statistics are correct, with a population of 62 million, only half has been vaccinated, so over 30 million people did not. Many in Tanzania are not falling for the propaganda that Covid-19 experimental shots are safe and effective.

The legacy of John Magafuli will be that he opposed the dictates of Western institutions and Big Pharma. History will remember him as a hero for the Tanzanian people because since the Covid pandemic was announced, he warned the people about the dangers of Big Pharma and their Western institutions.

John Magafuli will be remembered as a hero not only to the Tanzanian people and to continent of Africa, but to all of us around the world who oppose the globalist operators and their agenda of vaccinating the planet to either create a sick population that will benefit Big Pharma or just eliminate the "useless eaters" that are in their way of achieving their goals.

Forget Opposing an Illegal Occupation, the Palestinians Are Now Anti-Vaxx Conspiracy Theorists!

If any of us were Palestinian living in the Gaza Strip, the West Bank, or other areas in and around Palestine, I would absolutely reject the Covid-19 vaccine for several reasons. First, would you take a vaccine from Western countries who have been supporting Israel unconditionally since 1948? How would you know if they are safe? Second, would you trust Western biotech corporations who produced a vaccine in under several months while most vaccines had acquired many years of studies and tests before they were approved?

Bottom line, Palestinians don't want to be test subjects like the Israelis.

"The CEO of Pfizer said he chose Israel to be the "one country" to demonstrate his company's anti-COVID vaccine because he was "impressed, frankly, with the obsession of your prime minister" according to allisraelnews.com. "He called me 30 times. He would call me at 3 o'clock in the morning and he would ask me about the (coronavirus) variants, what data we have," Bourla continued "and I would say, 'Prime Minister, it's 3 o'clock in the morning,' and he would say, 'No, no, don't worry, just tell me.' Or he would call me to ask about children, 'I need to vaccinate the schools.' Or about pregnant women."

Bourla said "he convinced me, frankly, that he would be on top of things" and that "we placed our bet with Israel and we are so happy because of the way that you executed the vaccination. And a year from the declaration of the pandemic by the WHO (World Health Organization) we were able today to issue a press release together with the Ministry of Health of your country about the results.”

In a scientific report from 2022 based on the results from Big Pharma’s experimental shots on the 16–39-year-old population in Israel with factors associated between Covid-19 infection rates and those who received the Covid-19 vaccine are as follows:

Using a unique dataset from Israel National Emergency Medical Services (EMS) from 2019 to 2021, the study aims to evaluate the association between the volume of cardiac arrest and acute coronary syndrome EMS calls in the 16–39-year-old population with potential factors including COVID-19 infection and vaccination rates. An increase of over 25% was detected in both call types during January–May 2021

The report admits that there are legitimate concerns,

“While not establishing causal relationships, the findings raise concerns regarding vaccine-induced undetected severe cardiovascular side-effects and underscore the already established causal relationship between vaccines and myocarditis, a frequent cause of unexpected cardiac arrest in young individuals.”

On July 23rd, 2021, Al Jazeera ‘Reluctance and distrust define vaccine attitudes in Gaza’ reported on the mistrust of Covid-19 vaccines among Palestinians. “Suhair Zakkout, spokeswoman for the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) in the Gaza Strip, said its health sector has long faced major systemic issues” but concerns remain because a third of people in the Gaza Strip and West Bank refuse to get vaccinated with Covid-19 experimental shots:

The reluctance of people to get vaccinated, however, has raised concerns and prompted the ICRC – alongside the health ministry and the ministry of endowment and religious affairs – to launch a campaign aimed at increasing awareness about the positive effects of the shots

On June 15th, 2021, The Palestinian Center for Policy and Survey Research \(PCPSR\) found that “35% (37% in the West Bank and 32% in the Gaza Strip) say they and their families are not willing to take the vaccine when it becomes available to them.” One third of the Palestinian people will not take any Covid-19 experimental shot and that is a good thing.

Yemen’s Houthi Movement and the Resistance Against COVID-19 Vaccines

Daraj, a so-called independent media outlet sponsored by the Soros foundation published a report on February 23rd, 2021 ‘Yemen: “We Don’t Want Vaccines. There is No Corona Here. We Are Fine” clearly calls those who reject Covid-19 vaccines conspiracy theorists:

Opinions on the coronavirus in Yemen are as divided as the country itself. While the south is awaiting the first vaccines, the north claims to have no need for immunization. What the two sides have in common is a health sector in shambles and a striking love for conspiracy theories

They say Yemen is divided between the Yemeni government in the south who are eagerly waiting for their first vaccines while the north which is controlled by the Houthi movement who has been fighting the Saudi coalition since March 26th, 2015, had declared, they don't want them:

While countries across the world are racing to provide their citizens with the coronavirus vaccine, the Yemeni authorities remain confused and divided. The internationally recognized Yemeni government on the one hand is trying to gradually obtain the vaccine for free, while the Houthi movement (Ansar Allah) on the other hand categorically rejects the vaccine

Daraj mentioned the war and storage issues are some factors on why the Yemeni population has not been vaccinated, but residents who live in the north such as 31-year-old Ahmed Al-Washali who said that

"We do not want vaccines, there is no corona in Yemen, we are fine" and that "It has not affected us. While other countries were imprisoned in their homes, and could not work, we lived normally and nothing happened."

Daraj reporters asked 52 people who live in Houthi territory about the Covid vaccine and here is the result:

Our team met with 53 people in areas under control of the Houthi movement, most of whom hold a university degree, are employed in the public or private sector and have an average age of 27 to 35.

We found that 42 out of 53 people refuse to receive the vaccine if it were available. Because they did not need it, most said, while 17 claimed the vaccine may be a "conspiracy" posing a threat to their health. Of the 9 people willing to receive the vaccine, 7 stipulated it should be free of charge. Two people said to have never heard about a vaccine against the virus

The results are inspiring to say the least. Western-backed organizations such as the World Health Organization (WHO) are not trusted at all:

Some people found the lack of a complete outbreak of the epidemic a reason to reject the vaccine and denounce the integrity of the WHO. A doctor in Taiz, who requested anonymity, said he supported the Great Barrington Declaration, a statement signed by thousands of scholars in the field of medicine and public health calling for an alternative approach to the Covid pandemic based on "focused protection" of those most at risk.

Despite the low rate of illiteracy compared to other governorates, in Taiz too resistance to vaccination remained high. And here too it was not just limited to religious people but included holders of university degrees and secular people. For 49-year-old teacher Jamil, for example, corona was "just an illusion"

In the city of Aden, the results were similar:

Things were not too different in Aden, as fear for the vaccine prevailed. In a poll conducted by our team among 121 residents in the city of Aden, over 84% refused to have the vaccine. The main reason was a lack of confidence in the authorities responsible for importing the vaccine and a fear for the conditions in which the vaccine would be cooled and stored. Even some health workers feared the vaccine in terms of safety and potential side effects

The Houthi movement and the people who support them are clearly awake to the fact that Western nations and their Big Pharma corporations are promoting dangerous Covid-19 experimental shots. They see the dangers.

The Houthi movement knows that these Covid-19 experimental shots are used as another weapon of war, a bioweapon that can be used to depopulate their society. At least we know that in the next manufactured pandemic, the Houthi movement will continue to resist Western countries and Big Pharma just like they have been resisting the Western-backed Yemeni government led by Abdrabbuh Mansur Hadi and a coalition of military forces led by Saudi Arabia since 2014.

Vaccine Hesitancy in Africa, Latin America, and the Caribbean

A Brazilian study on vaccine hesitancy by Cardenos De Saude Publica (CSP), English translation 'Reports in Public Health' called 'COVID-19 vaccine hesitancy in Latin America and Africa: a scoping review' said that several countries had a percentage of people who refused Covid-19 experimental shots for various reasons:

In the case of vaccination against COVID-19, studies conducted in African and Latin American countries showed that hesitancy was linked with religious beliefs, association between vaccination and surveillance of government authorities, lack of information about adverse events, vaccine safety and efficacy, and dissemination of fake news

Who were the main Latin American countries with high rates of hesitancy?

In Latin American countries, the highest vaccine hesitancy rate of 26.1% and the lowest 8.4% were reported in Brazil. In Ecuador, hesitancy ranged from 73% to 9%, depending on the vaccine efficacy. In Chile, 28% were hesitant and 23% refused the vaccine. Peru had 10.1% refusal and 19.5% hesitancy. In Venezuela, vaccine hesitancy was 28.75%

One point that the Brazilian study reflected on was the history of the Global North (Western Nations) which was the legacy of colonialism and the violence (military invasions, regime change and their depopulation schemes) which the people in Africa, Latin America and the Caribbean remember from their histories with Western Imperial powers:

Underdeveloped countries were repeatedly used for tests with human beings, which today resulted in vaccine refusal due to the fear of being laboratory subjects. The power relationship between the Global North and the Global South, expressed in a past of coloniality and violence still alive in the memory of colonized countries, is reflected in the rejection of practices that supposedly come from the North. Then vaccines are seen by different groups as population control strategies in underdeveloped countries, as "western malevolence", or as a method to extinguish undesirable groups

The people who refused Covid-19 vaccines in Africa, Latin America and the Caribbean during the last pandemic will continue to resist Western nations and their Big Pharma scams because they know that there is an agenda in the next manufactured pandemic.

Vaccine Resistance in Western Nations

Forbes magazine reported on March 8th, 2021, 'Covid-19 Vaccine Hesitancy Is Worse In E.U. Than U.S.' claimed that the "but getting shots into the arms of European Union (E.U.) residents has proven to be much trickier. The U.S. is vaccinating at a faster pace than any member of the E.U., and three times the E.U. average" and that is in a way the good news. Polls suggest that the Europeans don't trust Big Pharma as well since "only 36% of the surveyed Europeans strongly agree with the statement that vaccines are safe." In fact, Europe has a history of resistance against Big Pharma's AstraZeneca vaccine:

In Europe, even approved products that don't necessarily have supply issues have faced stiff resistance. In France and Germany, for example, the approved AstraZeneca vaccine has an image problem, which means many are reluctant to take it, including healthcare workers on the front lines. Poor, inconsistent messaging has fueled the public's confusion over the safety and efficacy of AstraZeneca's vaccine. President Macron's claim last month that the vaccine was "quasi-ineffective" for the elderly didn't help matters. He has since reversed himself and is now pleading that people get vaccinated with whatever vaccine is available to them. But the damage was already done

The Europeans of both political movements, whether far-left or far-right, are usually anti-establishment so obviously, they don't trust Big Pharma's Covid-19 experimental shots as well:

Europe's degree of Covid-19 vaccine aversion is perhaps surprising, but not if one views it in the context of fiercely anti-establishment politics on the far-left and far-right, and a particularly virulent anti-science sentiment that existed long before Covid-19 hit. To illustrate, the far-right Lega and leftist Five Star Movement in Italy have both incited fearmongering about vaccines. Likewise, far-right and far-left political leaders in France, such as Le Pen and Mélenchon, have stoked anti-vaccine attitudes

From Africa, the Middle East, Latin America to Europe and even in the United States where one-third of the population did not take the Covid-19 experimental shots for whatever reason, there will be another popular resistance against Big Pharma's experimental shots and a possible future lockdown.

For the next manufactured pandemic, the globalists, and the Pentagon, including all their institutions including the elephant in the room, Big Pharma will face a resistance by people from all walks of life and they will fail because the 2 billion people around the world will continue to oppose Big Pharma's Covid-19 experimental shots and that is something the globalists are not looking forward to.

*

Note to readers: Please click the share button above. Follow us on Instagram and Twitter and subscribe to our Telegram Channel. Feel free to repost and share widely Global Research articles.

Timothy Alexander Guzman writes on his own blog site, Silent Crow News, where this article was originally published. He is a regular contributor to Global Research.

Featured image is from SCN

The Worldwide Corona Crisis, Global Coup d'Etat Against Humanity

by Michel Chossudovsky

Michel Chossudovsky reviews in detail how this insidious project “destroys people’s lives”. He provides a comprehensive analysis of everything you need to know about the “pandemic” — from the medical dimensions to the economic and social repercussions, political underpinnings, and mental and psychological impacts.

“My objective as an author is to inform people worldwide and refute the official narrative which has been used as a justification to destabilize the economic and social fabric of entire countries, followed by the imposition of the “deadly” COVID-19 “vaccine”. This crisis affects humanity in its entirety: almost 8 billion people. We stand in solidarity with our fellow human beings and our children worldwide. Truth is a powerful instrument.”

ISBN: 978-0-9879389-3-0, Year: 2022, PDF Ebook, Pages: 164, 15 Chapters

Price: ~~$11.50~~ FREE COPY! Click here \(docsend\) and download.

We encourage you to support the eBook project by making a donation through Global Research’s DonorBox “Worldwide Corona Crisis” Campaign Page.

The original source of this article is Global Research
Copyright © Timothy Alexander Guzman, Global Research, 2023

Comment on Global Research Articles on our Facebook page

Become a Member of Global Research

Articles by: Timothy Alexander Guzman

About the author:

Timothy Alexander Guzman is an independent researcher and writer with a focus on political, economic, media and historical spheres. He has been published in Global Research, The Progressive Mind, European Union Examiner, News Beacon Ireland, WhatReallyHappened.com, EIN News and a number of other alternative news sites. He is a graduate of Hunter College in New York City.

Disclaimer: The contents of this article are of sole responsibility of the author(s). The Centre for Research on Globalization will not be responsible for any inaccurate or incorrect statement in this article. The Centre of Research on Globalization grants permission to cross-post Global Research articles on community internet sites as long the source and copyright are acknowledged together with a hyperlink to the original Global Research article. For publication of Global Research articles in print or other forms including commercial internet sites, contact: publications@globalresearch.ca www.globalresearch.ca contains copyrighted material the use of which has not always been specifically authorized by the copyright owner. We are making such material available to our readers under the provisions of "fair use" in an effort to advance a better understanding of political, economic and social issues. The material on this site is distributed without profit to those who have expressed a prior interest in receiving it for research and educational purposes. If you wish to use copyrighted material for purposes other than "fair use" you must request permission from the copyright owner.

For media inquiries: publications@globalresearch.ca