Nicaragua - The Privilege of Free Health Care

By Becca Renk, August 11, 2022

We're settling in to our daughter Orla's sixth night in the hospital. Visiting hours are over and only ten of the beds in our 32-bed pediatric ward are occupied tonight, down from 20 a few nights ago. The patients - mostly young teens in our room - are tucked in under mosquito nets. Their carers - mainly grandmas, aunts and moms - are slouched in chairs or curled around their patients on the beds. A few of us stretch out on unoccupied beds to get some rest before the nurse turns on the lights for the next regular blood pressure and temp check.
