Martin Luther King's Death Disappears Down the Memory Hole. "He Was Assassinated by a U.S. Government Conspiracy"

By Edward Curtin, January 16 2017

As Martin Luther King's birthday is celebrated with a national holiday, his death day disappears down the memory hole. Across the country – in response to the King Holiday and Service Act passed by Congress and signed by Bill Clinton in 1994 – people will be encouraged to make the day one of service (from Latin, servus = slave). Etymological irony aside, such service does not include King's commitment to protesting a decadent system of racial and economic injustice or non-violently resisting the warfare state that is the United States. Government sponsored service is cultural neo-liberalism at its finest.

India's Man-Made Economic Calamity: How Many Will Die from Starvation, Malnutrition and Disease as a Result of Modi's Demonetization?

By Walt Gelles, January 16 2017

At this point, every sane and responsible person in India should be asking: How many tens of thousands, or hundreds of thousands, or millions of people in India are going to die from hunger, starvation, malnutrition and disease as a result of Modi's demonetisation?

"Deep State" Ultimatum to Trump: Play Ball or Else

By Stephen Lendman, January 16 2017

US presidents are fronts for powerful interests running America, intolerant of anyone changing longstanding policy. Trump is under enormous pressure and threats to continue dirty business as usual or else. Defiance could get him undermined, impeached or assassinated – hardline globalist Mike Pence in the wings to replace him, an easy to control establishment figure.

The “Beatification” of Barack Obama. The “Good Guy” Storyline is Set...

By Kit, January 16 2017

Already the storyline is set – Obama was a good man, who tried to do great things, but was undone by a Republican senate, and his own “sharp intelligence”. These people, as much as anybody, reflect the cognitive dissonance of the modern press. “Liberals”, to use their own tortured self-descriptor, now assign the roles of good guy and bad guy based purely on aesthetics, convenience and fuel for their vanity. Actions and consequences are immaterial.

Shifting from Central Planning to a Decentralised Economy: Do We Need Central Banks?

By Professor Richard A. Werner, January 16 2017

While voices of those pointing out that the central banking narrative has been wrong (e.g. Werner, 1992, 1994, 2003a) had been successfully drowned out by central banks and their large-scale and meticulously planned PR campaigns for many years (see Ishii and Werner, 2003; Werner, 2003b, on the ‘information management’ of central banks), it is now becoming apparent and visible even to laymen that the central banking narrative has collapsed on all fronts.
