

U.S. is on brink of survival crisis, according to Moscow

By Global Research

Global Research, July 29, 2008

Inferfax: 29 July 2008

Region: Russia and FSU, USA

MOSCOW. July 29 (Interfax) – Moscow thinks that the United States could face a serious domestic crisis in the near future.

“The U.S. is on the brink of a mass crisis of surviving,” a source with the Russian Foreign Ministry told journalists on Tuesday.

“The U.S. is on the track of drastic and painful changes,” he said. “At first, they have to learn to live within their means,” the diplomat added. Speaking about relations between Moscow and Washington, the source said that less interdependency in Russian-U.S. relations would be useful.

“We can in the future reach the moment when we will be able to stop discussing only the issues the U.S. side is interested in,” he said.

“We are not enemies with the U.S., and unfortunately we are still not friends, but we are depending on each other less and less,” the diplomat said.

The original source of this article is Inferfax:
Copyright © Global Research, Inferfax:, 2008

Comment on Global Research Articles on our Facebook page

Become a Member of Global Research

Articles by: Global Research

Disclaimer: The contents of this article are of sole responsibility of the author(s). The Centre for Research on Globalization will not be responsible for any inaccurate or incorrect statement in this article. The Centre of Research on Globalization grants permission to cross-post Global Research articles on community internet sites as long the source and copyright are acknowledged together with a hyperlink to the original Global Research article. For publication of Global Research articles in print or other forms including commercial internet sites, contact: publications@globalresearch.ca www.globalresearch.ca contains copyrighted material the use of which has not always been specifically authorized by the copyright owner. We are making such material available to our readers under the provisions of "fair use" in an effort to advance a better understanding of political, economic and social issues. The material on this site is distributed without profit to those who have expressed a prior interest in receiving it for research and educational purposes. If you wish to use copyrighted material for purposes other than "fair use" you must request permission from the copyright owner.

For media inquiries: publications@globalresearch.ca