Channel Four News journalist Johnathan Miller travelled to Gaza where he interviewed civilians sheltering in a UN run school attacked by Israel using white phosphorus munitions.

The attack – described as “Outrageous” by the UN Secretary General – was filmed by a school worker on his mobile phone.

Donatella Rovera, an Amnesty International investigator said “We’ve seen Prima Facie that there have been war crimes”

Stop the War and others have called a protest on Saturday demanding that Israel gets out of Gaza, that the blockade is lifted, that all borders are opened and that there is a complete arms embargo on Israel.
