

Video: The Longest, Deadliest Wall in the World that Nobody Talks About

By Rumble

Global Research, January 29, 2018

Rumble 11 January 2018

Region: Middle East & North Africa

Theme: History, Militarization and WMD

Western Sahara is home to a fortified wall that is 16 times longer than what used to divide Berlin. It's also dropped millions of landmines into the mix. Did you know about this?

The Great Wall Of China, 13, 170 miles long, is the longest wall in the world. Coming in second is a desert wall you have never even heard of. "The Berm" is 1,678 miles of piled rock and sand. Heavily armed, it cuts right through the Sahara Desert.

In 1975, Morocco claimed sovereignty over Western Sahara. But the local Sahrawi population resisted so Morocco built the longest functional military wall in the world to keep them out.

Moroccans call it "The Berm" but to the Sahrawis it's the "Wall of Shame". "The Berm" is guarded by tanks, radar and roughly 120, 000 soldiers, keeping watch 24/7.

Source: The Longest, Deadliest Wall In The World That Nobody Talks About by INSH on Rumble

It's also home to the world's longest continuous minefield. Over seven million landmines lie beyond its fortifications. They have injured over 2,500 people of all ages. Not many people in North America know about this wall. But, it's a wonder something like this has been allowed to exist for so long.

The seven million landmines scattered across its perimeter also help rank it as the world's longest minefield. At nearly 1,700 miles, it doesn't quite match the enormity of the Great Wall of China, but the Great Wall of today doesn't have explosives surrounding it and soldiers on patrol.

When Morocco took region of Western Sahara over from Spain in 1976, it inherited a long-standing territorial issue with guerrilla forces from the Sahrawi Arab Democratic Republic.

*

Featured image is from ArtsAction Blog.

The original source of this article is Rumble

Copyright © Rumble, Rumble, 2018

Comment on Global Research Articles on our Facebook page

Become a Member of Global Research

Articles by: Rumble

Disclaimer: The contents of this article are of sole responsibility of the author(s). The Centre for Research on Globalization will not be responsible for any inaccurate or incorrect statement in this article. The Centre of Research on Globalization grants permission to cross-post Global Research articles on community internet sites as long the source and copyright are acknowledged together with a hyperlink to the original Global Research article. For publication of Global Research articles in print or other forms including commercial internet sites, contact: publications@globalresearch.ca www.globalresearch.ca contains copyrighted material the use of which has not always been specifically authorized by the copyright owner. We are making such material available to our readers under the provisions of "fair use" in an effort to advance a better understanding of political, economic and social issues. The material on this site is distributed without profit to those who have expressed a prior interest in receiving it for research and educational purposes. If you wish to use copyrighted material for purposes other than "fair use" you must request permission from the copyright owner.

For media inquiries: publications@globalresearch.ca