

“Liberated Iraq”: Nuri al-Maliki and Saddam Hussein’s Executioner – A Family Affair?

By Felicity Arbuthnot

Global Research, June 28, 2013

Region: Middle East & North Africa

Theme: US NATO War Agenda

In-depth Report: IRAQ REPORT

As violence continues to rage across “liberated” Iraq under America’s puppet “Prime Minister” Nuri al- Maliki, a fair amount of it at his instigation as his troops round up and shoot demonstrators (President Jalal Talabani, who had a heart attack early in the year has vanished without trace, Vice President Tarik al-Hashimi has fled to Turkey in fear of his life) one incident arguably of note, has gone un-noticed in the Western media.

On Friday 21st June the Ba’ath Party, in a statement said that: “Party Members” had killed one of Saddam Hussein’s executioners, alleging it was the balaclava masked man who placed the noose round his neck and led him to the trap door, in a video and multi-mobile recorded death and aftermath of further horror, ushering in the US-UK’s “New Iraq.”

Saddam Hussein’s death on 30th December 2006 took place at dawn on the day of the start of the week-long celebration of the religious festival of Eid al-Adha, which coincided with the great Haj pilgrimage to Mecca. It was thought that this might delay the execution, however, reportedly a late night meeting between Nuri al-Maliki and American officials over-rode any qualms about a lynching on an auspicious religious occasion.

George W. Bush declared an act of sheer barbarism equal to history’s lowest blood-dripping excesses: “A milestone.”

The date of the death of the alleged executioner has not been confirmed, but has been reported as taking place near Yusufiyah, about twenty five miles south west of Baghdad, from a volley of bullets to the head.

All reports are unconfirmed independently, though are fairly detailed. Seemingly, after Saddam Hussein’s death, noose man was rewarded by becoming one of Nuri al-Maliki’s bodyguards and promoted to Captain.

One website (Elaf, arabic) states that before the fall of Saddam he sold vegetables in Torij, in Southern Iraq’s Karbala province, stating it is the birth place of Nuri al-Maliki, whose past is, to say the least, opaque – it further claims that he and al Maliki are relatives.

The name of the alleged executioner? Muhammad Nasif al-Maliki.

See also:

<http://english.alarabiya.net/en/News/2013/06/22/Report-Man-who-executed-Saddam-Hussein-killed-i>

n-Iraq.html

<http://www.ekurd.net/mismas/articles/misc2013/6/govt2197.htm>

The original source of this article is Global Research
Copyright © Felicity Arbuthnot, Global Research, 2013

---

Comment on Global Research Articles on our Facebook page

Become a Member of Global Research

Articles by: Felicity Arbuthnot

Disclaimer: The contents of this article are of sole responsibility of the author(s). The Centre for Research on Globalization will not be responsible for any inaccurate or incorrect statement in this article. The Centre of Research on Globalization grants permission to cross-post Global Research articles on community internet sites as long the source and copyright are acknowledged together with a hyperlink to the original Global Research article. For publication of Global Research articles in print or other forms including commercial internet sites, contact: publications@globalresearch.ca

www.globalresearch.ca contains copyrighted material the use of which has not always been specifically authorized by the copyright owner. We are making such material available to our readers under the provisions of "fair use" in an effort to advance a better understanding of political, economic and social issues. The material on this site is distributed without profit to those who have expressed a prior interest in receiving it for research and educational purposes. If you wish to use copyrighted material for purposes other than "fair use" you must request permission from the copyright owner.

For media inquiries: publications@globalresearch.ca