A group of Americans, concerned about the U.S. government's obsession with "regime change" wars and frightened about the potential for a nuclear confrontation with Russia, urges a national debate on these policies.

On June 16, the New York Times reported:

"More than 50 State Department diplomats have signed an internal memo sharply critical of the Obama administration's policy in Syria, urging the United States to carry out military strikes against the government of President Bashar al-Assad to stop its persistent violations of a cease-fire in the country's five-year-old civil war.

The memo, a draft of which was provided to The New York Times by a State Department official, says American policy has been 'overwhelmed' by the unrelenting violence in Syria. It calls for 'a judicious use of stand-off and air weapons, which would undergird and drive a more focused and hard-nosed U.S.-led diplomatic process.'

We are a group of concerned U.S. citizens currently visiting Russia with the goal of increasing understanding and reducing international tension and conflict. We are appalled by this call for direct U.S. aggression against Syria, and believe it points to the urgent need for open public debate on U.S. foreign policy.

We note the following:

- (1) The memo is inaccurate. There is no 'cease-fire' in Syria. The 'cessation of hostilities' which was agreed to has never included the major terrorist groups fighting to overthrow the government in Syria. This includes Nusra (Al Qaeda), ISIS and their fighting allies.
- (2) A U.S. attack on Syria would be an act of aggression in clear violation of the UN Charter. (Ref 1)
- (3) The supplying of weapons, funding and other support to armed groups fighting the Syrian government is also a violation of international law. (Ref 2)
- (4) A U.S. attack on Syria would lead to more bloodshed and risk potential military confrontation with Russia. With arsenals of nuclear weapons on both sides, the outcome could be catastrophic.
- (5) It is not the right of the USA or any other foreign country to determine who should lead the Syrian government. That decision should be made by the Syrian people. A worthy goal could be internationally supervised elections with all Syrians participating to decide their national government.
- (6) The memo reportedly says, "It is time that the United States, guided by our strategic interests and moral convictions, lead a global effort to put an end to this conflict once and for all." Similar statements and promises have been made regarding Afghanistan, Iraq and Libya. In all three cases, terrorism and sectarianism have multiplied, the conflicts still rage, and huge amounts of money and lives have been wasted.

In light of the above, and the danger of escalating global conflict:

Map of Syria

-We urge State Department officials to seek non-military solutions in conformity with the U.N. Charter and international law.

-We urge the U.S. Administration to stop funding and supplying weapons to armed 'rebels' in violation of international law and end the policy of forced "regime change".

-We call for an urgent nation-wide public debate on the U.S. policy of "regime change".

(2) On June 27, 1986 the International Court at the Hague issued its legal ruling in the case of Nicaragua vs. United States. The ruling was as follows:

Decision of the International Court at the Hague

Decides that the United States of America, by training, arming, equipping, financing and supplying the "contra" forces or otherwise encouraging, supporting and aiding military and paramilitary activities in and against Nicaragua, has acted, against the Republic of Nicaragua, in breach of its obligation under customary international law not to intervene in the affairs of another State.

By "training, arming, equipping, financing and supplying" the military rebel groups waging war against the Damascus government, the US and "friends" are committing the same crime that the USA was responsible for committing against Nicaragua in the 1980's.
