

What is the Link between One of Hillary Clinton's largest Donors and the Women's March?

By Asra Q. Nomani

Global Research, January 23, 2017

Women in the World in Association with the New York Times 20 January 2017

Region: USA

Theme: Women's Rights

In-depth Report: U.S. Elections

We bring to the attention of our readers excerpts of an important article by Asra Q. Nomani published by Women in the World in association with the New York Times under the title: "Billionaire George Soros Has Ties to More than 50 'Partners' of the Women's March on Washington". January 20, 2017

...The Guardian has touted the "Women's March on Washington" as a "spontaneous" action for women's rights. Another liberal media outlet, Vox, talks about the "huge, spontaneous groundswell" behind the march. On its website, organizers of the march are promoting their work as "a grassroots effort" with "independent" organizers. Even my local yoga studio, Beloved Yoga, is renting a bus and offering seats for $35. The march's manifesto says magnificently, "The Rise of the Woman = The Rise of the Nation."

To understand the march better, I stayed up through the nights this week, studying the funding, politics and talking points of the some 403 groups that are "partners" of the march. Is this a non-partisan "Women's March"?

...

Roy Speckhardt, executive director of the American Humanist Association, a march "partner," told me his organization was "nonpartisan" but has "many concerns about the incoming Trump administration that include what we see as a misogynist approach to women." Nick Fish, national program director of the American Atheists, another march partner, told me, "This is not a 'partisan' event." Dennis Wiley, pastor of Covenant Baptist United Church of Christ, another march "partner," returned my call and said, "This is not a partisan march."

Really? UniteWomen.org, another partner, features videos with the hashtags #ImWithHer, #DemsInPhily and #ThanksObama. Following the money, I pored through documents of billionaire George Soros and his Open Society philanthropy, because I wondered: What is the link between one of Hillary Clinton's largest donors and the "Women's March"?

...

By my draft research, which I'm opening up for crowd-sourcing on GoogleDocs, Soros has funded, or has close relationships with, at least 56 of the march's "partners," including “key partners” Planned Parenthood, which opposes Trump’s anti-abortion policy, and the National Resource Defense Council, which opposes Trump’s environmental policies. The other Soros ties with “Women’s March” organizations include the partisan MoveOn.org (which was fiercely pro-Clinton), the National Action Network (which has a former executive director lauded by Obama senior advisor Valerie Jarrett as “a leader of tomorrow” as a march co-chair and another official as “the head of logistics”). Other Soros grantees who are “partners” in the march are the American Civil Liberties Union, Center for Constitutional Rights, Amnesty International and Human Rights Watch. March organizers and the organizations identified here haven’t yet returned queries for comment.

To read the complete article in the NYT click here

Asra Q. Nomani is a former Wall Street Journal reporter. She can be reached at asra@asranomani.com or on Twitter.

The original source of this article is Women in the World in Association with the New York Times

Copyright © Asra Q. Nomani, Women in the World in Association with the New York Times, 2017

Comment on Global Research Articles on our Facebook page

Become a Member of Global Research

Articles by: Asra Q. Nomani

Disclaimer: The contents of this article are of sole responsibility of the author(s). The Centre for Research on Globalization will not be responsible for any inaccurate or incorrect statement in this article. The Centre of Research on Globalization grants permission to cross-post Global Research articles on community internet sites as long the source and copyright are acknowledged together with a hyperlink to the original Global Research article. For publication of Global Research articles in print or other forms including commercial internet sites, contact: publications@globalresearch.ca www.globalresearch.ca contains copyrighted material the use of which has not always been specifically authorized by the copyright owner. We are making such material available to our readers under the provisions of "fair use" in an effort to advance a better understanding of political, economic and social issues. The material on this site is distributed without profit to those who have expressed a prior interest in receiving it for research and educational purposes. If you wish to use copyrighted material for purposes other than "fair use" you must request permission from the copyright owner.

For media inquiries: publications@globalresearch.ca